Dear Benjamin Franklin,

I have no doubt that may not even be found out, but I should like to present to you a few of the further reasons.

Up simply, I take no exception to your [illegible] but as a patriot, I regret that [illegible] people [illegible] are to blame to live. I should not like to see the two together.

The [illegible] of Franklin appeals to me. I make it a considerable point for anyone who [illegible] in Twenty Thousand, the [illegible] suppose by the [illegible] people [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible]. The climate and topography [illegible] for a [illegible] and [illegible] atmosphere

It is not my intention to suggest that people should be required to live in settlements. Certainly that alone could become a form of social persecution and they should certainly be entirely free to establish themselves.

Finally, I'm not sure of the doctrine of the Peoples Temple but it would seem that it is a good opportunity for them to demonstrate a concrete showing of love, compassion and peace to oppressed people.

Thank you.

Very truly yours,

Mark Lane
